

The Machine Learning Assignments were part of a course offered by University Of Toronto. In these assignments we got to explore different types of machine learning techniques that can be used to analyze data. Different machine learning techniques used were: Regression, Support Vector Machine, K-Means Clustering, etc.